ALL ARE INTERESTED

MUCH ENTHUSIASM MANIFESTED IN PUTTING PLAYGROUND IN GOOD SHAPE

Everyone is interested in the playgrounds which the trustees of Glendale, the board of education and the Parent-Teacher association are financing and boosting. Miss Laura Rowe has been secured as supervisor of the Pacific avenue playground and her success as such is manifested by the large number of boys and girls who spend their hours of play and recreation on the grounds that have been provided for their pleasure.

Over fifty children were present Thursday during the opening hours—8:30 to 11:30 a. m. and 2 to 6 p. m. Now all are working with increased interest to have the grounds in first-class shape for the grand opening, which will be celebrated Saturday, July 24. May Brothers, the contractors and builders, have donated their drawings and will erect the grandstand free of charge. All men who can use a hammer and saw are invited to assist in this worthy cause. May Brothers will announce the date to begin work later, or as soon as all details have been fully completed.

A cut of two feet had to be made on the tennis and basketball courts and this surveying, leveling and the blue print were done through the courtesy of City Engineer Edward M. Lynch.

The plowing and leveling of this court was donated by Hugh Cornwell, the popular team contractor.

The children have taken turns at sprinkling the court; in fact, spending many hours, which was a pleasure to them, in watering and assisting in leveling the ground. The city officials sent the big steam roller, under the efficient management of Oran Tarr, and great care was taken to leave this court in perfect condition for the cement. As yet no one among the many good cement workmen of this city has volunteered his services to assist in doing the cement work, but Mrs. Richardson and others who are assisting her are confident that when it is known that such workmen are needed, there will be a ready response to their appeal.

The iron framework for the wire is being made by the most skilled men and will be in its proper place ere long. The various committees realize that nothing is too good for Glendale and are busy visiting playgrounds, securing ideas and plans for the Pacific avenue recreation place of amusement.

Among the many pleasant features which the several committees are planning is a dinner to be served in the court of the school building on Saturday evening, the day of the opening. Tennis will be enjoyed the afternoon of the 24th, when champion players will enter. Two league teams from Los Angeles will feature the program with an interesting game of ball. Dinner will be served from 5:30 to 7 p. m. Every man who wishes to have a part in these improvements is asked to come to the grounds of the Pacific avenue school Saturday afternoon, July 10, bringing his lunch for the evening meal, as the ladies will provide hot coffee at 6 p. m. With the lunch bring a good shovel to assist with the work.

TIME TO GET VOTES

Every candidate in the Evening News popularity contest should at least get one more club of six new subscriptions to The News or The Progress between now and next Thursday, July 15, when the first and greatest extra vote offer will close.

Continued perseverance in calling on every possible prospect will be of incalculable value in enlarging your fund of votes.

If a person should offer you $120 a week for your work for the next seven weeks you would doubtless accept the offer and be glad to work eight hours, ten hours, or in fact, your entire available time in order to make good.

The News offers you the same chance. You have the opportunity of winning the $850 fully-equipped Maxwell touring car, purchased of the King-Maxwell agency, and which will be awarded to the contestant having the highest vote on Saturday, September 4. It will certainly pay any candidate who is after the first grand prize to spend every available hour at their command this week in securing extra votes, as the work you do this next week may win or lose for you your choice of prizes.

Remember, in addition to the Maxwell touring car, The News gives away other valuable prizes, including the $400 Schiller piano, the trip to the exposition, three $75 scholarships to the Isaacs-Woodbury Business college of Los Angeles and a $50 deposit at the First National bank of Glendale.

REVIEW FOR MONTH

STATE DEVELOPMENT BOARD ISSUES BULLETIN FOR MONTH OF JUNE

June, 1915, was a very pleasant month, with less than the average rainfall. In fact, there was little or no precipitation over the greater portion of the state. The temperature was nearly normal in all sections and while there were no marked warm spells, the night temperatures were generally higher than usual. There was the usual amount of cloudiness and fog along the immediate coast, but in the interior the weather was clear and pleasant, with nearly 100 per cent of the possible sunshine. The weather was in marked contrast to the wet, cold weather of May, and was in every way favorable for crop growth and farming operations. The grain harvest was progressing and in some sections the oats had been cut by the end of the month. Rust has caused damage to the grain in some sections, but on the whole it is thought the crop will be a good average. Fruit is being shipped freely to eastern markets and canneries are beginning on apricots. Water was plentiful for power and irrigation purposes.

The motor vehicle division reports that 5043 automobiles were registered during June, and 1162 motorcycles. The number of chauffeurs registered was 863.

The Imperial valley Chamber of Commerce announces an excellent opening for a condensed milk factory and guarantees that the farmers will assist financially in undertaking such an enterprise. This is one of the three leading dairy counties of the state, but at present has no condensed milk industry.

Porterville (population 5000) has a new and modern 44-room hotel for rent. Same is very much needed at present in our town, and only lacks a tenant. Phone is installed in each of the rooms; also hot and cold water and private baths. Every room an outside room. Cafe is connected with hotel and modern kitchen is installed in rear of cafe. Kitchen is cemented. Radiators are also in each room. Building is located on prominent corner of city. Sidewalk and street work all done. Will give long lease to desirable tenant.

A colonization syndicate, under the direction of bishops and pastors of the National Synod of the Norwegian Lutheran church, has finally decided to encourage an immigration of its members from the Middle West to the Sacramento valley. It is announced that contracts have been made for the purchase of 10,000 acres in Sutter, Yuba and Placer counties, including 2000 acres of Natomas holdings in the Bear river district. It is understood that at least 1000 acres must be settled upon by colonists within a year and a definite agreement has been made for a certain portion of the selected area to be taken up from year to year. The new settlers will not be immigrants, but practical farmers already experienced in American methods.

Advance proofs of the annual report of the California development board, now in press, show large increases in the acreage of most of the California agricultural and horticultural crops. The most conservative figures for 1914 show that 6,343,845 acres were planted to field crops; 286,509 acres were table, raisin and wine grapes; the deciduous fruits numbered 11,706,931 trees, most of which were orange; and there were 2,994,395 almond and walnut trees. These figures were taken from the reports of the county assessors and are therefore under rather than over the actual figures.

The exact record of clearings of all the cities of the state, which exceeded $100,000,000 in 1914, are as follows: San Francisco, $2,516,004,817; Los Angeles, $1,145,167,110; Oakland, $176,074,062; Sacramento, $103,286,903; San Diego, $103,102,297.

Since the disaster of April, 1906, and up to May 31st of the present year, 57,064 buildings have been constructed in San Francisco. The total cost of the permits amounts to $269,186,890. The largest expenditures were for the construction of frame buildings and of class "C," with class "A" third in the list. Municipal and other public buildings are the smallest items.

The San Francisco Chamber of Commerce announces that the city's rank in comparison with the cities of the United States during the year 1914 are as follows: First in actual value of land and improvements per capita; third in average capital per national bank; fifth in building contracts; fifth in foreign imports; fifth

CLEVER FAIRY PLAY

ROCK GLEN AVENUE CHILDREN GET UP AN INTERESTING DRAMA WITH MORAL

One of the most original and interesting children's plays in tabloid form for household consumption was staged the other evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Young of Rock Glen avenue. The handsome residence was brilliantly adorned for the occasion. The play was staged on the pergola and the lights and curtain adornments created a very brilliant effect.

More than forty guests, consisting of the parents and friends of the youthful actors, were present. The play, which was styled "The Fairy Lesson," was intended as a strong lesson on the subject of kindness to animals. The leading character was the "bad boy," a part taken by Frank Lerchen. This character was enacted with much clever interpretation by the youthful actor. Amber Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Young, acted the part of the mother, whose heart was grieved by the cruelty of the "bad boy" to his dog. Amber was responsible for the drilling and training of her little company of actors and for the staging of the play, which was greatly enjoyed by all. The part of the fairy queen, who comes in at the psychological moment and punishes the cruel boy in a manner to make a lasting impression on his mind, was played with great intelligence by Constance Braasch. The rest of the little company were Mary Barbara Taylor, Marian Lerchen, Margaret Johnston, George Hill and Albert Braasch.

After the play the children enjoyed refreshments and games. The older guests had a good time helping the children to celebrate the Fourth in a suitable manner, with old-time fireworks and the other accompaniments of the national holiday.

BURBANK

J. H. Parish is making an extended visit at Portland, Ore., and other points in Washington and Oregon.

Mrs. Ray Sence very pleasantly entertained the members of the Five Hundred club at a card party at her home on Olive street Wednesday afternoon of this week.

O. C. Lane is now occupying his new garage, which is one of Burbank's most modern business blocks and one of the best equipped garages in the San Fernando valley. The front of the building is of white glazed brick with a trim of green glazed brick. It has a frontage of fifty feet and is 100 feet deep. An alley leads back to the storage and work rooms, and from this opens the display and sales room, which faces on San Fernando road, the whole front being devoted to the entrance and a large show window of plate glass. This salesroom is 30x32 feet in size and opens into a ladies' rest-room and Mr. Lane's private office, both of which have woodwork of oak and wall tinting of light tan with ceilings white. The rest-room will be finished with rug, easy chairs, lavatory and toilet accessories. Mr. Lane's private office is a model of convenience and neatness, with furnishings of oak. The floors are cement. Mr. Lane is agent for the Ford car and has sold scores to people of this vicinity the past two years.

J. H. Gourlay returned Thursday after several months' trip, including stops at San Francisco exposition, Portland, Ore., Seattle, Vancouver, British Columbia, Minneapolis, Minn., and other cities in Canada and the northwestern part of the United States.

Russell Wickersham left Thursday for Modesto, Cal., where he will spend a number of days looking after his ranch interests in the vicinity of Modesto.

W. S. Walker has been confined to his home on Olive street the past couple of days on account of sickness.

A game of baseball will be played at the high school grounds Saturday, July 10, between Burbank and the college alumni of Los Angeles. This Los Angeles team is a strong organization and as Burbank will have a good line-up, an interesting game is expected.

Georgian Griswold of Orange street is convalescing from an attack of measles.

LADIES' AID TO MEET

Quite an interesting session is expected at the Ladies' Aid of the First Methodist church, which will meet Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 at the home of Mrs. J. E. Phillips, 242 South Brand boulevard. Preparations have been made for a good attendance and after the business has been transacted there will be a pleasant social time and a short program.

BETTER TIMES AHEAD

LOCAL CONTRACTOR SAYS BUSINESS IS PICKING UP AND CONFIDENCE INCREASING

Glendale has a great future before it according to the opinion of Mr. Fred W. Pigg, 142 Orange street. If the country had had four years of good times instead of four years of bad times, this city would have been far ahead even of its present excellent status, is the belief of this local contractor, who has had six years' experience in the local building market.

"The past two years have been the dullest in my experience," said Mr. Pigg to a representative of the Glendale Evening News. "Then of course it has been exceedingly dull everywhere and compared with Kentucky, from which part I came, the worst times in Glendale are as good as the best there. This city is rapidly becoming known as a good, conservative town. It attracts a class of safe and sane investors," said Mr. Pigg. "People come out here and look the place over, then they go and look elsewhere. After comparing their experiences they invariably come back to Glendale to settle.

"It is true that property in Pasadena and Hollywood is higher. A house that would bring $7000 in this city would probably bring at least $2000 more in Los Angeles, Hollywood or Pasadena, but there is this great difference—the people who buy in Glendale generally put down a substantial sum and never fail in their payments, whereas in Los Angeles, for instance, quite a large proportion of sales are made with a small initial payment and a large number of the purchasers fall down on their payments.

"Glendale's future is bright. Our people are of the substantial middle class—the best in the world. They have come here to make for themselves homes. They bring to this place usually sufficient capital to give them that foundation that makes for their own and the city's permanency. This makes it possible to do a safe and conservative business at all times. Indeed, as far as that goes, all real estate men in Glendale have been compelled of late to play safe, but all are looking forward to better times. There are indications on all hands that those times are coming. I believe the people are determined to see the country lifted out of this slough of despond into which it has fallen and to hear again the hum of busy life in every avenue of business.

"Already, in Glendale, the real estate business shows signs of picking up; nothing to boast of, of course, but still something to indicate that the tide has turned. This past week I, myself, sold two houses—one for $6500 and one for $7500. I know of others who are doing business. I know of one man in Los Angeles who has kept $60,000 in the savings bank at 4 per cent rather than take any risk, but who recently withdrew that money and is to invest it in real estate. That is only one among many signs that the very worst of this depression is over and that light is ahead.

"I look to see Glendale make a marked advance the moment the business conditions in the country improve. It cannot fail to do so. We have every advantage in this beautiful city—the purest of water, good lighting, good government, the very best schools and modern churches, no saloons—in short, this is an ideal community and it will always be possible, even in the worst of times, to make a good living here. It need not be wondered at then that the city is attracting and will continue to attract that very element of population that makes real estate a sound and safe investment."

NEBRASKA VISITORS

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Ruby of McCook, Neb., are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Light, 1529 Penn street, having arrived here Wednesday over the Southern Pacific from Santa Cruz, where they had been visiting. Mr. and Mrs. Ruby have been taking an extended trip, having visited the exposition at San Francisco and other points of interest enroute from their home. They expect to remain in Glendale for several weeks. No doubt they will finally be added to our list of residents, for they are already showing symptoms of being delighted with this locality.

Liberty Bell is cracked and cannot ring. But the patriotic outbursts which it is evoking have the right ring to them.

South America needs United States capital. And capitalists of this country need just such an inviting field for investment as is afforded in South America.

HERE COMES THE HERD

LOCAL ELKS PREPARING FOR "GLENDALE DAY" MONDAY —COME OUT AND HELP

Already the streets of Glendale are beginning to assume a gala appearance. The local Elks are making great preparations to entertain the large "herd" that is coming this way on Monday. That will be "Glendale Day" and the brethren are anxious that the visitors receive that hearty reception without which no entertainment is complete.

The visiting brothers have heard of the hospitality of Glendale and will have an opportunity to verify the report. The officials of Glendale lodge are very anxious that their guests, who are also guests of every citizen of Glendale, should go away saying "the half was not told me."

There will be no difference known on Monday between one class of citizens and another. There will be no distinction of religion or politics. All will be brethren. Everyone in the city is invited to come out and to make the streets bright with their presence. The efforts now being put forth by the local lodge are certain to result in everybody having a good time.

Already the flags are flying on the main streets and the pennants and bunting are making the city wear a festive look. Help this effect. Add to it where you can. Decorate your houses. Get out the official colors, if you can—purple and white. Let our visitors see that there is public spirit here and that this is a modern, progressive city.

By Saturday night all the decorations should be up. Los Angeles is already full of the advance guard of the visitors. It will be a mighty army and will make things lively. The Elks' band will give a first-class concert on the streets and will add to the general gayety. The Elks will extend their hospitality to all.

Preparations are being made to have a rodeo on the street and best of all, the whole affair will be perpetuated in a moving picture. Arrangements are being made with one of the local moving picture companies to make a film of the scenes in the streets. To have any value or effect such a picture must show crowds. The film cannot exaggerate or cover over the truth. Therefore, let the streets on Monday be thronged with crowds of the happy, merry, presentable men, women and young people for whom Glendale is famous.

ELABORATE PRODUCTION

Mr. and Mrs. Mattison B. Jones and daughter, Miss Winifred, attended the opera, "Fairyland," Thursday evening. Mrs. Jones in an interview with a News reporter says that the opera is a very elaborate and beautiful thing and deserves all the credit and support that it is getting. However, she feels that greater things in the way of American opera can and will be done in the near future. Before American opera reaches its height, American singers must learn to enunciate. Marcella Crafts' enunciation is very fine, but some of the other singers are woefully deficient along this line. The orchestra is very fine, the number depicting dawn being especially good. Mrs. Jones thinks this part of the production somewhat overdone, as in almost every instance the brass is too loud and spoils the climax of the soloist. She feels this to be the fault not of the composer, but of the director, the music itself being very beautiful. Mrs. Jones is enthusiastic in praise of the opera as a whole. It is so thoroughly clean and moral and so delightfully appealing to the better side of our natures. She says we need more of such productions. She feels that those who have been instrumental in producing this opera should be given all credit.

PREPARATORY SERVICE

For several years past it has been the custom of the officers of the Presbyterian church to plan for the attendance of every member of the church at the preparatory service on Friday evening preceding the communion service. This evening at 7:45 the pastor will preach. Topic, "Yom Kippur," a sacramental meditation. This will be a family gathering and all members, together with any others who may desire to attend, will be welcomed. At the close of the service the Session of the church will meet those who expect to unite with the church on next Lord's day.

The fountain of perpetual youth is in our own soul. We never grow older than we permit ourselves to become. At seven or seventy we may be youthful in spirit and we are essentially what we are in spirit.

FEATURES OF THE FAIR

C. W. CLARK SAYS SAN FRANCISCO EXPOSITION IS VERY HIGHLY EDUCATIVE

As time goes on and more and more of our local experts in art, architecture, music and other branches of human accomplishment have opportunities to see the great exposition at San Francisco, the deeper is the impression created in the minds of those who have not seen it that the fair in the northern city is one of the most interesting ever presented to the American public. One of the latest of our Glendale residents to visit the exposition is Mr. C. W. Clark of 201 South Central avenue, who returned Thursday from a visit to the City of the Golden Gate.

Mr. Clark says that the exposition is one of the most impressive that has ever been assembled in the United States, or for the matter of that, anywhere else. "It would be difficult," said Mr. Clark, "where all is so excellent, to select any particular exhibit that excells the rest. Some, however, appeal to visitors more than others, especially to those who have a bent in any particular direction. Naturally the automobile exhibit is one of the most complete ever brought together. California is the greatest automobile state in the country and is increasing every day the numbers of her car contingent. It was not, therefore, surprising to find that every effort had been put forth to make the different sections of this manufacture as complete as possible. The result is astonishing. Everything that can interest car owners is here and if they are not embarrassed by the wealth of detail, they can learn much and profit much.

"Among all the foreign exhibits I thought that of Canada the most interesting and the most original. Whoever got up that exhibit was certainly a man with a genius for arrangement. On entering the building one is presented with a constantly unfolding picture of the whole life of the great sister country of the North American continent. There are the beavers—real, live beavers—building their dams, gnawing at the trees, silently stealing out onto the banks and looking solemnly at the crowds. There are the cornfields, painted in striking perspective, with a real foreground of grain in sheaves. You follow all the processes of the business, from the threshing machine to the wagons that carry the grain to the railways, where miniature trains load up the golden treasure and bear it to the elevators, whence it is shipped in the shape of flour. All the processes are before you. There is the lumber business; there the important mining business. The salmon of the West and the fur of the North—all are shown. In fact, this is one of the most interesting and instructive industrial and social exhibits I have ever seen. It naturally attracts crowds.

"The art section is extremely interesting and shows much of the curiously weird effects of modern methods. The influence of the futurist school and of the cubist school is there and with it all the wonderful genius of the past.

"The electrical exhibits are a magic world in themselves and it would take many days to make a thorough study of all the marvelous electrical appliances that are rapidly taking the places of old manufacturing and domestic devices. Evidently the reign of electricity is close at hand.

"Altogether," said Mr. Clark, "San Francisco fair is one of absorbing interest and if one desires amusement, one can get it on the Zone in every shape and form. There are many new motion sensations and many wonderful scenic effects. I think everyone should see the fair and if our school children could only see it, they would profit largely by personal contact with the best of all that is going on in the world."

THE MUNICIPAL FLOAT

Glendale's municipal float which will appear in the parade in Los Angeles Wednesday, July 14, will be a beautiful part of the parade, so say the committee having it in charge. The float will be built on the Valley Supply company's large motor truck. On the floral body will be placed four chairs and on each will be seated a lady. These ladies will represent Benevolence, Charity, Justice and Motherly Love.

The ladies who will represent these characters are Mrs. Cable, Mrs. W. E. Evans, Mrs. L. W. Bosserman and Mrs. Warren Roberts. They will be attired in Grecian robes.

A large Elk's head will decorate the front of the float. In the central portion of the entry will be a large clock, whose indicating hand will point to the hour of eleven—symbolical of part of the Elks' ritualistic work to absent brothers—and will at regular intervals strike eleven times.

RUSSIA'S SPECTACULAR STAND

Russia, after having been driven in confusion out of Galicia, is at last gathering her scattered forces for a spectacular stand east of Krasnik, on the defense line of Warsaw. It may not be much to boast of—this stiffening up of the retreating forces—but that the czar's men should be able to stiffen up at all shows that there is not any such demoralization in their ranks as has been represented by those who would fain have it so.

Russia has unexampled resources in men. Had the czar as great resources in arms and ammunition there is little doubt that all Galicia would have been held instead of passing again into the hands of the Germans and Austrians. Meantime, the Russians are making extensive preparations for an early offensive against the Germans by means of which they hope to drive the Germans and their allies again out of Galicia. The great weakness of the Russian army, as of the allies, is lack of ammunition. It is said that Britain is supplying large quantities of ammunition through the northern port of Archangel and that those supplies will soon make their presence felt at the front.

There is where the Germans have shown their extraordinary preparedness. There has never been any appearance of lack of ammunition on their part. They are able to bring to one spot in overwhelming quantities those terrific shells that tear everything before them into pieces, sweep the most intricate wire entanglements into fragments and destroy whole lines of trenches.

Against such modern methods Russia has been opposing the old style of easy-going fighting. The czar's generals and officers might have been supposed to have learned something of trench warfare in the war with Japan, but Russia is slow to learn and Germany has bettered even those methods of 1905. Ten years is a long time in the development of war methods and any country that does not keep up to date is certain, like Russia, to find itself outclassed.

There are indications, however, that Russia's deficiencies in ammunition are being supplied and with the wonderful recuperative power that country has displayed throughout the war, the Russians are even now beginning again to stem the daring onrush of German valor. With the large fortress guns that Grand Duke Nicholas is bringing into the field, the czar's men are likely to make another showing against the tide of German valor that has brought the troops of the kaiser almost to the gates of Warsaw. As the war thus fluctuates from month to month, the prediction made in the beginning by Field-Marshal Kitchener that the fighting would last three years seems likely to be fulfilled.

BUILDING A MERCHANT MARINE

It seems most unfortunate that at the time when the United States has so excellent an opportunity to build up a sea-going merchant marine of her own that important trans-ocean lines like the Pacific Mail Steamship company are giving up business, that the Robert Dollar Steamship company is preparing to return to British registry, and that the United Fruit company is also meditating the same step. The reason for this is alleged to be the crippling effect of the La Follette seamen's law.

This country depends almost entirely on foreign nations for ocean transportation. The moment the European war broke out the ocean transportation of the United States was paralyzed. Congress immediately enacted an emergency shipping law. This has not answered the purpose for which it was framed and the country must now build up a merchant marine of its own or else be bound more securely than ever in the bondage of the foreign lines.

This country might well take a lesson from Japan, which gives subsidies to home-built steel steamers with a gross tonnage of 3000, not older than fifteen years, and having a speed of twelve nautical miles per hour. Foreign-built vessels not older than five years receive half the rate allowed home vessels. The Japanese government encourages the shipbuilding industry in domestic yards by bounties. The control of Japanese and foreign vessels within the empire is vested in a Ship Superintending Bureau. The consequence of all this fostering care is that Japan now ranks sixth in the world's tonnage and that the Japanese Steamship company that has wrested the supremacy of the Pacific from the United States is one of the premier lines in the world. If some such encouragement be not given the fast declining American merchant marine, a few years will witness its entire disappearance from the high seas.

DEALING WITH DIPHTHERIA

Diphtheria, that dread scourge of humanity, which has annually taken cruel toll of early life, is at last on the way to be controlled with some degree of certainty. Formerly this disease was not understood and schools were closed when the disease appeared, the children losing part of their education. This school closing, instead of checking the disease, was really the means of spreading it. The infected children were sent away to infect their playmates, the schools were fumigated, and as soon as the authorities thought it safe, the children were readmitted with the diphtheria infection in their midst again.

Now it has been learned that certain individuals are "carriers" of the diphtheria germ. Those germs are present in large numbers in the mouths and noses of diphtheria carriers. The germs are transferred by means of books, hands, drinking cups, blowing horns and other articles of common use. No fumigation can possibly stop this process of spreading the disease. The modern method is to eliminate all means by which the germs can be conveyed from hand to hand or mouth to mouth—the common drinking cup, the common towel and other articles that are handled by all. The door handles and desk edges are disinfected and frequently washed. The children are examined and when individuals are discovered to be carriers of germs, they are sent home under restrictions. The other children are permitted to continue at school.

Chronic carriers are now subjected to restraint that varies with conditions. Gradually more efficient methods for controlling carriers are being evolved. In some schools as high as from 16 to 25 per cent of the children have been discovered to be carriers. In cases of this extreme kind those children have been segregated in separate schools and thus no one lost schooling.

It does not take long to clear up the cases of the carriers. After they have been thoroughly cleaned up and rendered innocuous they are returned to the schools. With the hearty co-operation of the parents, it may be expected that diphtheria will gradually be eliminated altogether. The State Hygienic Laboratory is doing excellent work in examining throat and nose cultures and thus detecting the carriers and it is hoped that by placing the majority of diphtheria carriers under reasonable supervision instead of waiting until some developed cases of the disease are discovered haphazard and placed under rigid quarantine, diphtheria will be gradually driven out of every community.

INSTRUCTION SCHOOLS FOR POLICE

That the duties of a police officer are no sinecure is well known to all who have had much to do with that indispensable department of civic government. Very much is left to the discretion of an officer in the discharge of duties that demand wide knowledge, not only of law, but of the most discreet methods of carrying out the intentions of the law. The ideal officer, according to the modern preventive idea of crime, is not he who makes the most arrests, but he who keeps his beat in peace and avoids unnecessary arrests.

Just as the whole idea of punitive imprisonment is being changed by the new corrective methods now in vogue in Sing Sing and elsewhere, so the whole idea of police methods is undergoing similar transformation. In view of those developments in police methods Mayor Mitchel and Police Commissioner Woods of New York City have decided to open a municipal school for the purpose of providing technical and general education for patrolmen along the modern lines. This will be the first school of its kind. Its chief object will be to equip patrolmen to reach the highest efficiency in their work, and prepare them for an advance in rank. Attendance at the schools is voluntary, but already 3000 patrolmen have applied for permission to attend.

There are to be eleven schools with eleven lieutenants as instructors in day and evening classes. The curriculum shows that there are 1500 things a police sergeant ought to know.

It may be expected that the immediate result of the teaching of the schools will be to obviate a great deal of the friction between the police and the public, of which so much was revealed in the investigations of the Lexow and other committees appointed to examine into police graft in New York. The experiment will be watched with much interest by cities in the West which have police problems of their own.

ALASKAN ENGINEERING COMMISSION

William C. Edes, chairman of the Alaskan engineering commission, Seward, Alaska, has written to Congressman Charles H. Randall of Highland Park, giving a brief statement of conditions there relative to the work in connection with the proposed government railroad.

At present the work consists in completing the surveys, for which five locating parties of from 15 to 20 men have been put in the field. Some construction work is being done—mostly by station men—being associations of a few men who form partnerships to grade short stretches of work and doing the work themselves.

So many applications have been received, says Mr. Edes, that it is impossible to consider but a small fraction of them. All engineering positions have been provided for and there are not likely to be any vacancies. Not more than two or three construction trains will be in service this season, and these will require but few trainmen.

Applicants for positions in Alaska can, therefore, hope for scant encouragement, so far as the Alaskan government railroad is concerned. In fact, there are already in Alaska many men capable of serving in all the various positions, many of whom will have to be disappointed, according to the information received by Congressman Randall.

SCHOOL FOR MEXICAN MOTHERS

What is likely to prove a serviceable course of instruction has been instituted for Mexican mothers in Pasadena. The first session of the new school was held in the South Raymond avenue school building the other day. Dr. Luella F. Morrow gave a lecture in Spanish on the proper feeding of babies.

Next Wednesday morning she will give a demonstration of the proper way to wash a baby. She will give a series of lectures along the same lines on the general care of babies and small children. There will be a lecture each Wednesday morning and the number in the series will depend upon the interest shown by mothers and the attendance.

The school is conducted under the auspices of the Pasadena Charitable League for the benefit of Mexican mothers. The league hopes that ultimately it will develop into an infant welfare clinic, but when it reaches that stage it will no longer be under the league's direction.

Miss Leta M. Sewell, visiting nurse for the league, found the field of instruction along this line so big that it was a hopeless task for one person to try and cover it alone by visits to the home. It is believed the same end can be accomplished by having the mothers gather in one place and there receive expert instruction.

Records of the league show that much sickness and frequent deaths among Mexican babies come from improper care, either in feeding, bathing or something else. The league is glad to extend whatever assistance it can in the way of medical aid for the sick, but believes it will be better for everybody concerned if the mothers can be taught preventive measures. Much of the sickness among the infants is due entirely to ignorance on the part of the mothers.

Californians do not live altogether on climate, but they do live very comfortably and delightfully in it and with it.

TENNESSEE PHOSPHATE ROCK

Phosphate rock in Tennessee is classified as brown, blue and white rock, from the characteristic colors of the material. The deposits are in the middle part of the state, the brown rock in 1914, according to the United States geological survey, having come from Maury, Giles, Hickman, Lewis and Sumner counties, and the blue rock from Lewis and Maury counties. White rock is found chiefly in Perry and Decatur counties, but none of this variety was marketed in 1914.

SAVING THE GAS BILL

The average housewife spends four times the amount of gas for cooking a meal that is necessary, and at the same time positively injures food values and quality of the article she is cooking. To get the greatest amount of heat units from a gas range the flame should not be turned any higher than will give a perfect blue flame. When the flame becomes a yellowish red, you are wasting gas and getting a heat unit that smudges your kitchen utensils, but decreases their longevity to one-half.

The flame should be about one-half inch of clear blue, and after the article you are cooking has come to a boiling point, reduce it to a point that will just keep it boiling. This is equally true in the oven; invariably the gas is turned too high for baking and the bread or cake is burned.

Our citizenship standards and requirements should be such that the melting pot would take the hyphens out of all classes who become naturalized Americans. One term is proper and good enough for us all—Americans.

The express company, like so many conveniences thought out by the American brain, has only been in existence since 1839, the year it was established by William Frederick Harnden.

Neutrality has its burdens and perils, not so great as those of war, but greater than should be.

The state that in the future shall give a greater exposition than California is giving this year will have to hump itself.

PERSONALS

Mrs. J. H. Kenney and her two daughters of Antrim, New Hampshire, were dinner guests Thursday evening of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Adams, 1450 Ivy street. The Kenneys were both former pupils of Mr. and Mrs. Adams. They are members of a touring party of eighteen persons who are seeing the West under the guidance of the superintendent of schools of Wallacetown, Conn. From Glendale they go to San Diego and the Mission valley, the Mexican border and thence to San Francisco.

Mrs. E. C. Frank, 578 East Third street has put on exhibition in the gallery of the Egan school, Los Angeles, a few of the paintings of her late husband, Mr. E. C. Frank. Those who know of the high artistic genius of this artist will be glad to have this opportunity of seeing some of his best work, such as "The Old Aristocrat," "Clam Diggers in Atlantic City," "In Southern Waters," "The Village Brook," "Danzlingen," "Venetian Market Scene," "Alt Brisach" and "Near Murray—Utah."

Mr. George Rommel, Mr. Edward Rommel, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Rommel and Miss Rommel and George Rommel, Jr., of Louisville, Ky., are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hartley Taylor, 1811 West Colorado boulevard. The Rommel party is the first that has ever motored from Louisville to California. They have gone today to Perris valley, Riverside county, and will return Sunday evening.

Mrs. E. C. Frank, 578 East Third street, and Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, 101 South Brand boulevard, attended the reception given Wednesday at the Wednesday Morning club to the delegates of the Dickens Fellowship from the East. The reception was under the management of the Dickens section of the club and was the occasion for a delightful symposium of real lovers of Dickens.

Mrs. C. M. Sparr, 534 South Jackson street, entertained informally on Thursday evening the following guests: Mrs. E. L. Sparr, Miss Dorothy Sparr and Miss Gladys Sparr of Corona; Mrs. Lowrie and Martin Lowrie and Mrs. J. M. Boynton of Altadena; Mrs. A. Hann of Glendale and Miss Lola East of Glendale.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Wenger of 819 Campbell street, Casa Verdugo, and family, are leaving to take up a ranch at Aberdeen on the Mojave desert. It is anticipated that when a proper water system has been installed on the ranches in that part of the country, that a profitable living may be made there.

Miss Margaret A. Hittle, who has been a guest of Mrs. H. E. Bartlett of 101 South Brand boulevard for some time past, has gone to Chicago to visit her people there. Miss Hittle has been teaching art in the high school at Spokane, Wash., and is now on her vacation.

What proved to be a very happy party was the family reunion held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hartley Taylor, 1811 West Colorado boulevard, July 5. About twenty relatives were present at dinner and celebrated the day in good old patriotic manner.

Mr. C. W. Clark, 201 South Central avenue, is building a large sun parlor as an addition to the south side of his fine residence. The new room is being built in architectural keeping with the older part of the house and forms an adjunct that is at once handsome and beautiful.

Dr. Braasch of Rochester, N. Y., who is associated with Dr. Mail in his large sanitarium in that city, was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Young of Rock Glen avenue. Dr. Braasch is attending the meetings of the National Medical association.

Friends of Mrs. Anna L. Smith will be sorry to learn of her serious illness at her home on Riverdale drive. Mrs. Smith's condition is such that it will be necessary for her to remain quiet for some time to come.

Col. J. H. Downing and wife of Durant, Okla., are visiting their daughter, Mrs. W. T. Sprowls, of 1317 Milford street.

D. L. Anderson of 320 Cedar street, Glendale, who had spent several days at Huntington Beach, returned home Thursday. He says the Glendale people who are there are enjoying themselves.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McClellan entertained at luncheon today Misses Adah and Nellie Milligan of Monmouth, Ills., Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Shaff of Eagle Rock and Mrs. Will Kilpatrick of Los Angeles.

Miss Rae Davis, 515 Orange Grove avenue, and Mrs. O. F. Black, who is visiting at the Davis residence, have been invited to form part of a theater party tomorrow by Mrs. A. E. Freed of Los Angeles.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank Arnold, 106 West Fifth street, have returned from their trip to San Francisco. They left last Friday and thoroughly explored the wonders of the exposition.

Mr. Everett Bartlett, 809 Lomita avenue, left Thursday to spend his vacation in San Francisco, where he will take in the exposition and visit in the vicinity of that city.

Mrs. A. S. Davis, 515 Orange Grove avenue, will entertain a large party of young people at an informal dinner tonight in honor of the birthday of her son, Mr. Lawrence Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex C. McDonald of 539 West Sixth street are the proud parents of a brand new baby daughter that weighs six and a half pounds.

Miss Elizabeth B. Paul, the popular third grade teacher of the Broadway school, has gone to San Francisco to spend a month with her relatives there.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Boyd of Long Beach spent Wednesday and Thursday at the J. B. McClellan home, 318 South Central avenue.

DISCOVERED BY ACCIDENT

Fuller's earth was discovered in Florida in 1893 through mere accident. An effort was made to burn brick on the property of the Owl Cigar company near Quincy. The effort failed, but an employee of the company called attention to the close resemblance of the clay used to the German Fuller's earth. Florida is now the leading state in the production of Fuller's earth, having reported for 1914 more than 75 per cent of the total quantity and value.

CALIFORNIA CHINA CLAY

"Kaolin" is the trade name of a new mineral which was opened up early in 1914 and reveals a one million ton deposit. This mine is located at Ione, Amador county. When first operated it practically "saved the lives" of several local manufacturing concerns whose plants were tied up by reason of their inability to procure the English china clay. Kaolin's adoption and continued use by porcelain works, paint works, cotton mills, soap factories, paper mills, etc., has been enthusiastic, and it completely eliminates the need of the imported china clay.

The chemical analysis is as follows:

Aluminum oxide (china clay), 38.89.

Silica, 47.16.

Kaolin's by-product (silica) is used for imitation marble and composition flooring. It furnishes the finest glass sand, equal to Belgian sand. The writer has seen flint glass made from this silica.

Kaolin is 20 per cent cheaper than English clay. About 40 tons a day are now being shipped, the Southern Pacific railroad running about 1500 feet distant from the mine and affording almost perfect and economical transportation.

NORTH GLENDALE

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Bierbower of 922 Fairview avenue entertained with a beautifully appointed dinner party last Wednesday evening. Lavender-hued Salpiglossis, with asparagus ferns, was used to decorate the daintily appointed table, where covers were laid for eight, and a full-course dinner was served by the gracious hostess. The guests who enjoyed the hospitality of these charming people included Mr. and Mrs. Steve Van Dresser of Eagle Rock, Mr. and Mrs. Phinnus Lince and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wheeler of Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Sampson and daughters, Miss Marjory Duncan and Miss Charlotte Sampson, of 1600 Ruth street, enjoyed attending the Orpheum very recently, after which they had dinner at Harlow's cafe.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Hunt of 1201 Viola avenue returned Thursday from San Diego, where they spent the week visiting the fair. They also went over into old Mexico and other interesting places while there, reporting a most enjoyable trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Cresson Muller and children of 926 Fairview avenue were Santa Monica visitors last Wednesday, spending the day at that delightful resort.

Mr. Frank Winslow of 1629 Ruth street returned Thursday morning from Brawley, Imperial valley, where he has been for the past seven weeks superintending the laying of the Brawley Water company's pipeline extensions. Mesmer & Rice of Los Angeles were the contractors.

Miss Lou Hunt and Miss Mary Hunt of 1201 Viola avenue, with a party of Los Angeles friends, returned Thursday evening from a camping trip up the Arroyo Seco, they occupying the cabin known as Alden Den.

Miss Marjory Duncan of 1600 Ruth street was one of a party who enjoyed hearing the opera, "Fairyland," at Clune's auditorium last Wednesday evening.

TROPICO

Sir Francis and Mrs. Booth entertained with a prettily appointed dinner party at their home on Gardena avenue Thursday evening. The table was centered with a graceful arrangement of pink mamman cochet roses. Seated with this gracious host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Freeman, Mrs. M. J. Rowantree and Miss Leonora Rowantree. Mr. and Mrs. Freeman leave shortly on a few weeks' visit to Kingsley.

Mrs. Samuel A. Pollock and son, Allen Pollock, accompanied by their house guests, Mrs. Elizabeth Kasseall, Mrs. Wesley Simons, Miss Mildred Simons of Philadelphia, Pa., and Mrs. Emery Gates of San Francisco, visited in San Gabriel today and also attended the Mission Play.

Mrs. Ella W. Richardson and sons, Paul and John Richardson, motored to Long Beach today, having as their guests Mrs. E. B. Ellias, Miss Gladys Manning and Dale Manning, where the day was pleasantly enjoyed at the seashore.

Mrs. Louise Purnell left for Barstow early this morning in her motor car, where she will spend several days inspecting some mining properties in which she is heavily interested financially.

Miss Eula Richardson and house guests, Miss Margaret Flickinger and sister, Miss He'en Flickinger of Council Bluffs., Iowa, accompanied by Miss Dorothy Wood, enjoyed "Fairyland" Thursday evening in Los Angeles. Following the rendition Miss Flickinger and sister left for San Diego, where they will remain several days visiting the exposition and other points of interest.

Miss Jessie Hoekstra of Chicago has been the guest of Miss Ada and Miss Mabel Van Hazelen of West Park avenue the past few days.

Mrs. James R. Maxwell and sister, Mrs. G. A. Boynton, accompanied by Mrs. S. A. Ramsay, spent a most delightful day at Venice and Ocean Park Thursday.

Blessed are they who are subject to the income tax.

Evidently Mexico regards peace as too bitter a pill to swallow. Recourse to forceful feeding may be necessary.

in total national bank capital; seventh in foreign exports of domestic goods; eighth in bank clearings; eleventh in number of manufacturing establishments.

News has been recently received that the Italian-Swiss colony's exhibit at the Genoa exposition was awarded the diploma of gold in competition with the wines of the world. This company, of which Mr. Andrea Sbarboro is president, has been foremost in the production of high-grade wines in California, and the news has been received with great satisfaction in Sonoma county, where the grapes are grown and where large Italian-Swiss wineries are located.

The Wells Fargo Nevada National bank in its monthly report dated June 15, says that the outlook continues to be excellent. Wheat, beans and sugar beets have been planted to a larger acreage than last year. It is now estimated that the wheat crop will be 300,000 tons, as compared with 204,000 last year, while the barley crop will be somewhat less than the bumper crop of 1914. Our principal fruits promise a production the largest in our history, and although the carry-over crop has been very well consumed during the past six months, the prices are and will be below the high rates of the last several years.

The official publication of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce says that 75 per cent of America's motion picture negatives are produced in Southern California, where there are sixty studios turning out 125 reels per week, under 70 different brands. The colony includes 15,000 people and 40,000 miles of pictures are sent out during the year.

One man in Southern California is reported to have ready for shipment twenty tons of comb honey, the result of the spring's production. This particular man is not a professional bee-keeper, but is a well digger. His output shows the possibilities of honey as a by-product in California, which offers unlimited possibilities to bee-keepers, but which still imports a large part of the honey consumed.

An unofficial announcement has been made by the first assistant secretary of the interior that the government has settled all the particulars connected with the surveys in Imperial valley and that the government land below the third parallel will be at once thrown open to settlement. A new land office will probably be established and it is likely that all government land subject to irrigation north of the third parallel will also be offered to bonafide homesteaders.

Announcement has been made that the Coca Cola company of Atlanta, Ga., will establish at Los Angeles its Pacific coast headquarters and also a branch factory. The contract for the building has already been let and machinery will be shipped from the East as soon as the building is completed. This company also has recently erected a magnificent skyscraper in the heart of New York.

The building operations in the twelve leading cities of the state during 1914 are officially reported as follows: San Francisco, $28,177,563; Los Angeles, $18,361,925; Oakland, $5,217,520; San Diego, $3,143,321; Sacramento, $2,329,978; Pasadena, $2,133,781; Fresno, $1,122,505; Stockton, $1,117,787; Bakersfield, $760,744; San Jose, $590,280; Long Beach, $283,870; Santa Rosa, $175,456.

Los Angeles announces that its assessment valuation is now approximately $500,000,000 for taxation purposes, on the basis of 50 per cent of actual value. Its new city directory gives the population of the city as $528,817. The total area of the city, including the recent annexation of Palms and San Fernando, is 279 square miles. The city now has 900 miles of improved streets and during the last year constructed 100 miles of sewers, 80 miles of curbing and 90 miles of cement sidewalks. It has 20 miles of streets lighted with ornamental lights, with more than 2000 posts. The latest figures show that it has 220 churches, 199 school buildings, with 2650 teachers and 92,000 pupils; its 2300 manufacturing concerns produce an output valued at $100,000,000 annually.

ATTENDS BOARD MEETING

Mrs. Mattison B. Jones was present at a picnic luncheon Thursday at Echo park given by the Los Angeles district board of the Federation of Women's clubs. The matter of choosing a place for the convention next March came up for discussion, invitations having been received from the Woman's club at Avalon, Catalina island, and from the South Pasadena Improvement association. This was a difficult matter for the board to decide, as they wish to arrange the convention so that the greatest number may attend. The matter was left open until the president's council in October.

Mrs. Jones, who was chairman of political science last year, was chosen for the same position the coming year. She finds that the clubs are taking a very live interest in this department of the club work, many having already made inquiries in regard to literature for the coming year. The clubs take up this subject, not in a partisan way, but merely as a study of the forms of government. The chairman intends to make this a thoroughly interesting and profitable study for all club women who wish to take it up the coming year.
